After the Moscow casket had arrived and the embalmed body had been placed therein, it was removed to a temporary resting place in the Western Hills to await the State Funeral at Nanking. This did not take place until June of 1929. As will be seen later, the Russian domination of the Kuoxnin-tang had by this time been overcome. Dr. Sun's widow, then in voluntary exile at Moscow, returned to China for the ceremony.